BIO

Haraldur graduated from the British School of Osteopathy in 2002. Prior to that his focus was on exercises and nutrition as he worked as a personal trainer and lecturer in that area. Haraldur has had a lifelong interest as an adult in the many aspects of healthy living. He is a founding member of The Icelandic Osteopathic Association and has been acting president since 2002. Haraldur was heavily involved in getting osteopathy regulated in Iceland, which ended in 2005 with osteopathy being a fully legalized health care profession. He is one of founding members of The Nordic Osteopathic Association.
